Be part of the biggest-ever international gathering to advance solutions to marine megafauna bycatch

Marine megafauna—including sharks, rays, sea turtles, seabirds, and marine mammals—face major pressure from incidental capture (bycatch) in both large-scale and small-scale fisheries. The inaugural International Forum on Bycatch of Marine Megafauna (IFBMM) will be the biggest-ever international conference-style event held to advance solutions to this critical issue.

It will bring together a diversity of stakeholders from both sea and onshore, to empower them to share knowledge and expertise and work together for a future where fishing fully coexists with marine megafauna.

SPONSORSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

The IFBMM offers several core sponsorship packages, which can be seen at a glance here.

Please get in touch with us if you would like to discuss the potential for a tailored sponsorship package.

For example, a tailored Platinum or Gold package could include sponsorship of elements such as:

- Day 1 drinks reception (full sponsorship or delivery of welcome to guests)
- An early career researcher or poster session
- A networking session
- Providing a concessionary registration rate for participants from a specific background (e.g. small-scale fishers)
